

All -vs- Every

*Both of these words basically mean 100% of something,
but they are used a little differently.*

All is generally used with plural nouns (2 pens, etc.) and with uncountable nouns

-All the books. All my money.

Every is generally used with single nouns (1 pen, etc.)

-Everyday. Every person.

Write all or every in the spaces below to complete the sentences:

ex.) Our team won every game this season to win the championship.

1. _____ the tickets for the concert sold out in a few hours.
2. _____ ticket for the concert sold out in a few hours.
3. It rained _____ day last week, so I spent _____ week at home.
4. Nearly _____ of the games kids play are too violent.
5. _____ of the people at the Halloween party had costumes on.
6. _____ thing Amy buys is very expensive. She must be rich.
7. Someone ate _____ of my cookies from the refrigerator.
8. The typhoon damaged _____ of the boats in the harbor.
9. The heavy rain got _____ one at the picnic all wet.
10. I couldn't answer _____ the questions on the test.
11. I couldn't answer _____ question on the test.
12. I'm trying to get _____ of my Christmas shopping done soon.
13. Sue invited _____ of her friends to her wedding next year.
14. Almost _____ passenger on the ship became sick from the bad food, so they had to throw _____ the food away.
15. I sold almost _____ of my DVDs to make some extra money.
16. Ted spends _____ weekend hiking in the mountains.
17. Mick was full and couldn't eat _____ of the pizza.
18. _____ of my clothes were burned in the house fire.
19. When _____ of the students were panicking, _____ teacher stayed calm and got _____ one out of the building safely after the earthquake.
20. I spend almost _____ of my free time at the sports gym.