

Whole -vs- All (1)

Both whole and all mean 100% of something. But whole means a complete something (a whole bottle, a whole year, etc.) and all talks about a total amount of something (all the food, all my friends, etc.)

Whole: a, an, the, personal pronouns (my, your, our, etc.), or a number always, always come before whole, and is followed by a singular noun (or plural if using a number).

It took Joe a whole week to drive across America.

We watched 3 whole seasons of that TV show in one day.

All: a, an, the, personal pronouns (my, your, our, etc.), or a number never, never come before all (they usually come after all)

Dan went on all (of) the rides at the amusement park.

Bill has 5 sisters, and all 5 of them are doctors.

1. Steve & Mark ate _____ the pizza. (a total amount of pizza)
2. Steve & Mark ate the _____ large sized pizza. (a complete pizza)
3. Hector has lived _____ his life in Spain, so he knows _____ the best sightseeing spots.
4. Hector has lived in Spain his _____ life and knows _____ the best sightseeing spots.
5. Our team lost _____ of our games last season.
6. My brother drank _____ of my tea when I went to the restroom.
7. Susie ate a _____ box of chocolates and felt sick all day.
8. I found a _____ bag of money, but I lost _____ of it gambling.
9. I bought a pie for dessert, but Susie and Melanie ate the _____ thing after lunch.
10. Diane drank a _____ bottle of wine during lunch and slept _____ day.
11. Sherry spent a _____ month in Brazil, living in the rain forest.
12. Diane is happy that _____ her kids went to Harvard.
13. My neighbor made a lot of noise _____ night long.
14. John traveled for 3 _____ months around Europe, spending the _____ time traveling by bicycle.
15. _____ the drinking water sold out in Tokyo quickly after the big earthquake.
16. Nearly the _____ country was covered in snow after the snowstorm.
17. Barbara spent _____ month in the hospital after her surgery..
18. That eating champion can eat 5 _____ hamburgers in 2 minutes.
19. Almost _____ of Timmy's friends came to his birthday party.
20. I dropped a _____ bottle of Tabasco in my kitchen and my house smelled like hot sauce _____ week. (True Story!)