

Sleep, Fall Asleep, Sleepy, Asleep

Sleep: This is a verb (slept, slept), which means to not be awake
I'm so tired. I only slept 3 hours last night.

Fall asleep: This means the moment when you stop being awake or an unplanned sleeping (fell, fallen)
Judy fell asleep while taking a bath.

Asleep: This is an adjective for when you are not awake
Sleeping has almost the same meaning

The earthquake hit while I was asleep (sleeping).

Sleepy: This is also an adjective for feeling that you need to sleep
I usually have

Fill in the blanks with the correct expression as in the examples:

ex.1) I can't believe Jennifer fell asleep while standing up!!

ex.2) Be quiet. The baby is still asleep/sleeping.

1. I _____ in my reclining chair while watching TV.
2. My wife makes me _____ on the sofa when we have a fight.
3. I'm so _____. I really need to go to bed before I _____.
4. Bob is still _____ in his room. Go wake him up.
5. The _____ driver _____ while driving and crashed into another car. He should have stopped and gone to _____!
6. Henry often _____ on the last train, misses his stop and then has to _____ on a park bench somewhere until morning.
7. Our teacher, Mrs. Clark, got angry because many of her students were _____ during her class. Kids get really _____ after lunch.
8. Kelly has an energy drink when she feels _____ at work.
9. I took some sleeping pills and _____ like a baby the whole flight.
Actually, I _____ the moment I sat down in my seat.
10. I took some sleeping pills and _____ like a baby the whole flight.
Actually, I was _____ as soon as I sat down in my seat.
11. Carrie often _____ at her desk when studying for tests.
12. The "Do Not Disturb!" sign on the door means I'm _____, and don't wake me up! I plan to _____ all day!
13. I could _____ all morning on cold rainy days. Rain just makes me so _____.
14. The movie was so boring that I _____ after just 15 minutes!
15. I was _____ when the phone rang and missed an important call.
16. I don't know how Tom can _____ through all the kids' noise!